Part 1 — Multiple Choice (Answer Key)

1. B – Scrolling without thinking
2. C – Pause and breathe
3. C – She doesn't stop to think first
4. C – Clicking “share” without checking truth
5. B – Attention and popularity
6. C – He only reads titles, not stories
7. B – He watched one short video
8. B – Ask questions first
9. A – They have lots of likes
10. B – Listening only to people who agree with him

Part 2 — Short Answer (Sample Answers)

11. Because they only hear one side of a story and may miss important facts or perspectives. This can lead to believing false or incomplete information.
12. Memes are designed to be funny or shocking, not accurate. They rarely include evidence or trustworthy information.
13. Stop, think, and check. Look for the source, find evidence, and ask whether someone is trying to trigger your emotions.

14. Likes show popularity, not truth. Lots of people can “like” something that’s false, exaggerated, or misleading.
15. Check if the post is true before sharing, look for evidence, or read more than just the headline.

Part 3 — Extended Response (Sample Answer)

16.

A strong answer should include:

- Characters who might fall for it:
Everyone Says Ellie (because it’s popular), Headline Harry (wild headline), Re-Post Robot (shares without checking), Captain Knee-Jerk (reacts fast), Overconfident Ollie (believes after one video).
- Why it’s suspicious:
Schools don’t make decisions based on social media shares; there’s no official source; sounds too good to be true.
- Possible harm:
Spreads misinformation, confuses students, wastes time, causes disappointment, encourages sharing without thinking.
- Media Master action:
Stop, think, and check; look for an official announcement from the school; don’t share until you know it’s true.
